PREFACE.

In the following publication the official records of officers of the United States Navy and Marine Corps have been brought down to January, 1901. The work contains, in alphabetical order, the names of all officers of the navy and marine corps, commissioned, warranted and appointed, including volunteer officers who have entered the service since the establishment of the navy department in 1798, showing the dates of their original entry, progressive rank, and the manner in which those no longer in the service severed their connection from it. The data has been compiled from the original manuscript records of the navy department and from the official navy registers, issued semi-annually by the department. The volume also contains a list of all midshipmen, cadet engineers and naval cadets who have entered the Naval Academy since its establishment, arranged alphabetically by classes.

A sketch of the navy from 1775 to 1798, with a register of the officers in service between those dates, as well as a complete and carefully revised list of vessels of the United States Navy from its inception to the present time, form a valuable feature of the work.

CHANGE OF ORGANIZATION.

The Act of Congress, approved 31 August, 1842, abolished the Board of Navy Commissioners and established in lieu thereof, the following Bureaus, viz:

1. Bureau Navy Yards and Docks.
2. Bureau Construction, Equipment and Repair.
3. Bureau Provisions and Clothing.
4. Bureau Ordnance and Hydrography.
5. Bureau Medicine and Surgery.

A subsequent Act of Congress, approved 5 July, 1862, established the following organization, viz:

1. A Bureau of Yards and Docks.
2. A Bureau of Equipment and Recruiting.
3. A Bureau of Navigation.
4. A Bureau of Ordnance.
5. A Bureau of Construction and Repair.
6. A Bureau of Steam Engineering.
7. A Bureau of Provisions and Clothing.
8. A Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

By order of the Secretary of the Navy the name of the Bureau of Equipment and Recruiting was, on July 1, 1889, changed to Bureau of Equipment.

An Act of Congress, approved July 19, 1892, changed the designation of Bureau of Provisions and Clothing to Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.

The present Bureau organization is as follows:

1. Bureau of Yards and Docks.
2. Bureau of Equipment.
3. Bureau of Navigation.
4. Bureau of Ordnance.
5. Bureau of Construction and Repair.
6. Bureau of Steam Engineering.
7. Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.
8. Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

THE NAVY FROM 1775 TO 1798.

For the facts connected with the events of our Revolutionary war we are indebted to the United States Naval Chronicle by Charles W. Goldsborough. We give simply the essential facts of the chronologist.

During the Revolutionary war the superintending direction of the Navy was committed, in the first instance, to a Committee of three members of Congress, viz: Messrs. Deane, Langdon and Gadsden, who were, in October, 1775, required to fit out two swift sailing vessels, the one of 10 and the other of 14 guns, and a proportionate number of swivels and men, to cruise "eastward" for the purpose of intercepting such transports as might be laden with munitions of war, and other supplies for the British, then in possession of the town of Boston, and for such other purposes as Congress might direct. Having resolved to fit out two more vessels (30 October), viz., one of 20, the other of 36 guns, four members—Messrs. Hopkins, Hewes, R. H. Lee and J. Adams—were added to the Committee; and when Congress, by resolution of 13 December, 1775, determined to build thirteen additional vessels of war, they increased the number of the Naval Committee, so as to make it consist of one member from each colony, to be appointed by ballot; and on the 14 December the following gentlemen were accordingly thus appointed, viz: Messrs. Bartlett, Hancock, Hopkins, Deane, Lewis, Crane, R. Morris, Read, Chase, R. H. Lee, Hewes, Gadsden and Houston.

To this Committee Naval subjects were generally referred, with an instruction to examine and report thereon, for the final decision of the House. Congress reserved to themselves the right to appoint all commission officers, as low as and including Third Lieutenants, and gave to the Committee the power of appointing all officers of subordinate rank. The Committee were authorized to give such instructions for the employment of the ships as might appear to them "most conducive to the defence of the United Colonies, and to the distress of the enemy's naval forces and vessels bringing supplies to their fleets and armies."

In performing the duties assigned to them, the Committee experienced great inconvenience for want of professional practical information, and upon the subject being brought before Congress they resolved (6 November, 1776) "that three persons, well skilled in maritime affairs, should be immediately appointed to execute the business of the Navy, under the direction of the Marine Committee, and allowed to each a salary of $1,500 per annum; and on 13 November, John Nixon, John Wharton and F. Hopkinson, Esqrs., were appointed. They were styled in the resolutions of Congress "The Continental Navy Board, or Board of Assistants of the 'Marine Committee,'" and sometimes "Board of the Middle District." There was also an "Eastern Board," consisting of three persons, who executed the instructions of the Committee in their district.

This system of administering the civil department of the Navy continued, it is believed, till October, 1779, when Congress, by resolution (28), decided that a Board of Admiralty should be established, "to consist of three Commissioners not members of Congress, and two members of Congress, and three to form a Board, for the despatch of business." Early in 1781 (11 January) we find that James Reed, Esq., was, by resolution of Congress, invested with full power to conduct the business of the Navy Board in the "Middle Department," and soon after this (27 February) Major-General Alexander McDougall was elected Secretary of Marine. In the same year (29 August) it was resolved that an "Agent of Marine" should be appointed "with authority to direct, fit out, equip and employ, the ships and vessels of war belonging to the United States, according to such instructions as he shall from time to time receive from Congress;" and "that as soon as the said Agent shall enter into the execution of his office the functions and appointments of the Board of Admiralty, the several Navy Boards and all civil officers appointed under them" should cease.

In September, '6) a resolution was passed, by which the duties prescribed to the "Agent of Marine," until he should be appointed, devolved on the Superintendent of Finance, Robert Morris, who, indeed, appears to have had the chief agency in the Civil Administration of the Navy during the greater part of the Revolutionary war. In the earliest periods we find that the orders of the commanders generally, bear his signature, and continued to be most frequently signed by him, until a Board of Admiralty was established, when the correspondence was directed under the superintending direction of the Board by Mr. John Brown, their Secretary. After the Board of Admiralty was abolished, we again find the chief duties of the Department devolving upon Mr. Morris. It would seem that the nation could not conveniently have conducted either its naval or its fiscal operations, without the agency of this distinguished patriot.

The list of officers, appointed during the Revolutionary war, are obviously imperfect; they are, however, as complete as the information in our possession will enable us to make them. The frequent changes in the administration of the Civil Department of the Navy, the occasional resolutions of Congress conferring sometimes upon one of the Boards the power of appointing; at others given to individual members, in conjunction with commanders, authority to appoint subalterns, the destruction of papers by fires and other causes, have involved this branch of the subject in great uncertainty, and it is impossible at this day, to present a perfect list of the officers. Were the information attainable, it would be particularly gratifying to show, not only the names of those who served in the Continental Navy, but of those also who served on board the ships fitted out at the expense of the respective colonies and on board privateers.

From the Journals of Congress and other sources, we find the following Commission Officers were appointed by them during the war.

With respect to the relative rank of the Officers, Congress by resolution of 17 April, 1776, decided that the nominations or appointments of Captain or Commander should not "establish rank." It was to be settled by Congress before the Commissions should be granted, and we find that by a resolution of 10 October, 1776, Congress established the rank and command of Captains, as follows:

1. James Nicholson	Virginia	28 Guns.
2. John Manly	Hancock	32 "
3. Hector McNeil	Boston	24 "
4. Dudley Saltonstall	Trumbull	28 "

On referring to the list of Captains and Commanders, and comparing it with the list established by resolution of 10 October, 1776, it will be seen, that Congress, in arranging the rank did not include the names of Ezra Hopkins, William Manly, Isaac Cozneau, Samuel Tompkins or Christopher Miller.

It is presumed that the Commanders appointed after 10 October, 1776, ranked according to the dates of their respective appointments.

Having established the relative rank of Commanders in the Navy—with each other, Congress, on 15 November following, resolved, that the rank of Naval Officers as to the rank of Officers in the land service, should be

Admiral	as a General.
Vice-Admiral	as a Lieutenant-General.
Rear-Admiral	as a Major-General.
Commodore	as a Brigadier-General.
Captain of a ship of 40 guns and upwards.	as a Colonel.
“ “ 20 to 40 guns	as a Lieutenant-Colonel.
“ “ 10 to 20 guns	as a Major.
Lieutenant of a ship of 10 to 20 guns	as a Captain.

And at the same date the following was fixed as the pay of the Officers of the Navy:

Ships of 20 guns and upwards.		Ships of 10 to 20 guns.
Captains per month.....	$60.....		$48
Lieutenants “	30.....		24
Master “	30.....		24
Surgeon “	25.....		21-2-3
Midshipman “	12.....		12
Gunner “	15.....		13
Chaplain “	20.....		None.
Seaman “	8.....		8

And that vessels under 10 guns should be commanded by Lieutenants, and that the pay in such vessels should be Lieutenants, $30; Mate, $15; Boatswain, Gunner, etc., $12; and the following allowances were, on 25 July, 1777, established, viz: Commanders of vessels of 10 guns and upwards, $5.33 per week for subsistence; under 10 guns, $4.00. Cabin expenses—Commanders of 10 guns and upwards, $2.66 per week whilst at sea.

Lieutenants, Surgeons, Captains of Marines and Chaplains $4 per week subsistence in domestic ports when the ships should not be in condition to receive them.

The pay of Commander-in-Chief was fixed (22 December, 1775) at $125 per month, and the pay of Surgeons was increased (16 July, 1777) so as to be equal to that of Lieutenant.

On 29 October it was “Resolved, That no private ship or vessel of war, merchant tures of the United States to appoint gentlemen in their respective States skillful in physics and surgery, to examine those who offer to serve as Surgeons or Surgeon’s Mates, in the Army or Navy; and that no Surgeon shall hereafter receive a commission or warrant to act as such in the Army or Navy, who shall not produce a certificate from some one of the examiners, so to be appointed, to prove that he is qualified to execute his office.”

On 29 October it was “Resolved, That no private ship or vessel of war, merchant ship or other vessels belonging to the subjects of these States, be permitted to wear pennants, when in company with Continental ships or vessels of war without leave from the commanding vessel thereof.”

During the war Congress authorized the purchasing, or building and equipping, as cruisers, the following description of vessels:

1775, October 13, 2 vessels of 10 and 14 guns.

1775, October 30, 2 vessels of 20 and 36 guns.

1775, December 13, 13 vessels, 5 of 32 guns, 5 of 28 guns, and 3 of 24 guns.

1776, October 3, viz., 1 frigate and 2 cutters.

1776, November 9, 10, 3 of 74 guns, 5 of 36 guns, 1 of 18 guns, and 1 packet.

1777, January 23, 2, viz., 1 of 36 guns and 1 of 18 guns.

Eight prize vessels were, during the years 1776 and 1777, directed to be purchased and fitted out, and in the course of the war a number of cutters, dispatch boats, galleys, and fire-ships were, from time to time, authorized. The cutters and dispatch boats were generally under the direction of a Secret Committee, one of whose duties was to procure munitions of war, and who, for that purpose, were authorized to export certain articles of provisions to the West Indies. The galleys and fire-ships were for the defence of our waters, within land-locked navigation and the lakes.

The thirteen ships authorized on 13 December, 1775, were directed to be built—one in New Hampshire, two in Massachusetts Bay, one in Connecticut, two in Rhode Island, two in New York, four in Pennsylvania, and one in Maryland, and, by resolution of 6 June, 1776, they were named as follows: The Congress, Randolph, Hancock, Washington, Trumbull, Raleigh, Effingham, Montgomery, Warren, Boston, Virginia, Providence and Delaware.

Among those authorized, subsequent to 13 December, 1775, and not hereinbefore mentioned by name, we find the Columbus, 28; the Queen of France, 28; the Ranger, 18; the Alliance, 32, built at Salisbury, Mass.; the Hornet, brig, General Gates, frigates Confederacy, Deane (afterwards changed to Hague), and Ariel, sloop Saratoga Duc de Lauzun, and the America, 74.

General letters of reprisal were authorized on 23 March, 1776, and thenceforth the public and private cruisers of the United Colonies were at liberty to capture all vessels, armed or unarmed, belonging to the Crown, or to the inhabitants of Great Britain.

Late in the month of December, 1775, a small squadron, consisting of the Alfred, Commodore Ezekiel Hopkins, of 28 guns; the Columbus, Captain A. Whipple, of 14 guns; the Andrew Doria, Captain Nicholas Biddle, of 14 guns; the Sebastian Cabot, Captain John D. Hopkins, of 16 guns, and the Providence, —Hazard, of 12 guns, with the Falcon, Scorpion and Cruiser, which were to join them at Cape Fear, were ordered to New Providence, for the purpose of seizing and transporting to the colonies a large quantity of ammunition, which, it was understood, was deposited in the Royal Magazine on that island. After landing there was some unaccountable delay, and the Governor heard of Commodore Hopkins' approach, in time to remove the powder, before he reached the town. Thus the expedition failed as to the principal object. The Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, with about 40 cannon, a quantity of shot and shell and a few brass mortars were captured. A bomb-brig of 8 guns and a schooner of 6 guns were taken by the squadron on its return.

Commodore Hopkins' conduct was inquired into by Congress, and it was found that he had not paid due regard to the tenor of his instructions, which "directed him to annoy the enemy's ships upon the coast of the Southern States." The reasons he assigned for not going from Providence to the Carolinas were not satisfactory, and on 16 August, 1776, Congress passed a vote of censure upon him. Three days afterward he was ordered to Newport, to take "command of the fleet formerly under his care." It is found, however, that Congress, in arranging the rank of the officers on 10 October following, omitted his name.

Although in the earlier periods of the Revolutionary war great embarrassments were experienced for want of an efficient marine force, still much was done by the vessels of war we then possessed, and by privateers, whose energy, enterprise and success were astonishingly great, considering the overwhelming force by which they were opposed. The number of captures in the course of the war has been stated at 803, of which there were either retaken, burnt, ransomed, sunk, restored or lost 153, leaving a gain to the nation of 650. If we estimate these as averaging 250 tons, and compute their value at $30 per ton, and their cargoes at $10,000 each, the amount of captures would be $11,375,000. Some English authors have estimated the value of the prizes taken in the year 1776 by the American cruisers at one million sterling.

That our vessels captured property worth millions of dollars is unquestionably true, but it appears impossible to form any precise estimate as to their value.

It is not in our power, nor is it the purpose of this paper, to afford particular information as to the movements of our national ships during the Revolutionary war, and we are obliged to omit giving a description of any of those brilliant achievements that occurred during that eventful period.

Of the ships of the line authorized during the Revolutionary war only one, the America, was built, and she was presented (3 September, 1782) to his Most Christian Majesty, the King of France, in testimony of the sense entertained by Congress of his generous exertions in behalf of the United States, and to replace in his service the Magnifique, which, by accident, was lost in the harbor of Boston. Of the other ships built and purchased during the Revolutionary war, the whole were either captured or destroyed by the enemy or sold by the United States. We find (21 April, 1783) that the ship Duc de Lauzun was loaned to the Minister of France for the transportation of troops from the United States; and that, after performing this service, she was to be sold. The Alliance was ordered (5 September, 1783) to be surveyed, with a view of her being repaired; but on 3 June, 1785, she was ordered to be sold; and when she was sold the United States did not, it is believed, own a single vessel of war.

The "Agent of Marine," to whom was referred a resolution of the House of Delegates of the State of Virginia, of 26 June, 1783, reported (5 August, 1783):

"That, although it is an object highly desirable, to establish a respectable marine; yet, the situation of the public treasury, renders it not advisable to purchase ships for the present, nor until the several States shall grant such funds for the construction of ships, docks and naval arsenals, and for the support of the naval service, as shall enable the United States to establish their marine upon a permanent and respectable footing." In this report Congress concurred.

Upon the application of the Delegates of Virginia, Congress, by resolution (3 October, 1783), authorized that State to keep, at its own expense, two armed vessels "for the defence of the trade of that State," confining the force of each to fourteen six-pounders and seventy-five men.

The United States had but recently achieved their independence and assumed a rank among the nations of the earth—they were still greatly embarrassed with the expenses of a long, bloody, yet glorious war; when the Dey of Algiers, tempted by a spirit of cupidity, seized some of their merchant vessels, and conducted their crews to slavery. This perfidious conduct produced the strongest indignation; but it was not in the power of the nation to avenge the insult, as promptly as the feelings it excited, or as sound national policy dictated. Negotiations were of necessity resorted to, but such were the difficulties which the policy of the Dey imposed, and such was our feeble condition, with respect to arms, that years elapsed before any favorable result was produced.

In this state of things we find the origin of the Act of Congress of 27 March, 1794, authorizing six frigates to be provided—which, however, were to be suspended in the event of peace with Algiers.

The resolution of the House of Representatives (of 2 January, 1794 “that a naval force adequate to the protection of the commerce of the United States against the Algerine corsairs ought to be provided,” was passed by a majority of two votes only, and the bill founded upon this resolution (27 March, 1794) was passed by a majority of eleven, but it is understood that it could not have been passed if the provision suspending all proceedings in the event of peace with Algiers had been omitted. Under these circumstances the President, General Washington, determined to build the vessels contemplated in the first section of the Act, viz.: Four 44-gun and two 36-gun frigates, and that they should be built in the following ports, viz:

At Boston	One	44
At New York	One	44
At Philadelphia	One	44
At Portsmouth, Va	One	44
At Baltimore	One	36
At Portsmouth, N. H.	One	36

No time was lost in making every preparatory arrangement for the building of these vessels. Mr. Joshua Humphreys, of Philadelphia, a distinguished shipbuilder of very extensive practical knowledge in his profession; Mr. John Hackett, of Salisbury, Mass., who had constructed and built the Alliance frigate, and others were consulted “upon the best properties to be adopted as a general plan for the vessels now to be built,” and upon the most advisable means of procuring the frames and the materials of which the vessels ought to be built. The models submitted by Mr. Humphreys were, after much consultation and consideration, adopted; and that gentleman was on 28 June, 1794, appointed the constructor and master-builder of the 44-gun ship, to be built at Philadelphia, with a salary of $2,000 per annum, commencing on 1 May.

The President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, appointed the following gentlemen Captains of the Navy:

1. JOHN BARRY,	4. JOSHUA BARNEY,
2. SAMUEL NICHOLSON,	5. RICHARD DALE,
3. SILAS TALBOT,	6. THOMAS TRUXTON,

Ranking in the order in which their names are stated, and their appointments were communicated to them 5 June, 1794.

Captain Barney declined accepting, not from any disinclination to serve his country, but in consequence of the arrangement as to rank. This produced a vacancy, which was filled on 18 July, 1794, by the appointment of James Sever, to take rank after Captain Truxton.

The following shows the distribution of the officers thus appointed, and the constructors and agents, for building the several ships.

On 21 December, 1795, President Washington communicated to the Senate a letter from the Emperor of Morocco, recognizing the treaty of peace and friendship between the United States.

Peace with Algiers having been concluded, no farther progress could be made in building the frigates; for as we have before seen, the law directed that in such event all proceedings should be suspended.

The President called the attention of Congress to this subject, and stated that serious losses would result from a sudden suspension of the work and the discharge of the valuable corps of artificers and men employed in completing it.

In January, 1796, the Chairman of the Committee of the House of Representatives, to whom the subject of frigates had been referred, called upon the Secretary of War (then charged with the superintendence of the Navy) for information as to the progress made in building them, the expenses incurred, etc.

The information was communicated to Congress, and on 20 April following "An Act supplementary to an Act, entitled an Act to provide a Naval Armament" passed, authorizing the President to continue the construction and equipment of the frigates of 44 guns and one frigate of 36 guns, appropriating for this purpose the unexpended balance of the $688,888.82 (which had been appropriated for the six frigates by Act of 9 June, 1794), and the sum of $80,000, which by the Act of 9 June, was appropriated for a provisional equipment of galleys, but no part of which had been expended on that object.

This Act continued the construction and equipment of three of the six frigates and discontinued the remaining three, notwithstanding such progress had been made that the whole six might have been built, launched and completely equipped within the year.

President Washington, in his speech to both Houses of Congress, 7 December, 1796, after referring to the many delays and disappointments arising out of the European war and the final arrangements made to the Dey and regency of Algiers, observes among other things, the following:

"To an active external commerce the protection of a naval force is indispensable." "To secure respect to a neutral flag requires a naval force, organized and ready to vindicate it from insult and aggression;" and asks, "Will it not, then, be advisable to begin without delay to provide and lay up the materials for the building and equipping of ships of war, and to proceed in the work by degrees, in proportion, as our resources shall render it practicable, without inconvenience; so that a future war of Europe, may not find our commerce in the same unprotected state in which it was found by the present."

The depredations committed upon our commerce by the cruisers of European powers, particularly those of Great Britain and France, and the suffering which ensued therefrom to our seafaring citizens, were the causes of our maritime war with the latter nation, and the consequent extension of our naval establishment.

On 9 April, 1798, the Secretary of War, who was charged with the duty of superintending the concerns of the Navy, as well as those of the Army, addressed to the Chairman of the Committee of the House of Representatives, for the protection of commerce and the defence of the country, a letter recommending building or purchasing vessels, with estimates for building, rigging and equipping, three ships of war, to carry 22, 20 and 16 guns, together with the cost of manning and victualing the same for twelve months. Said letter and estimates were submitted to Congress early in April, 1798, and on the 27th of that month an Act passed, entitled "An Act to provide an additional armament for the protection of the trade of the United States and for other purposes," authorizing the President to cause to be built, purchased or hired, a number of vessels, not exceeding twelve, to carry not more than 22 guns each, to be armed, fitted out and manned, under his direction; and appropriating $950,000 to carry these provisions into effect.

On 30 April, 1798, the office of Secretary of the Navy was established by law.

On 3 May, 1798, Hon. George Cabot, of Massachusetts, was nominated and confirmed as Secretary of the Navy, but declined the appointment.

On 4 May, 1798, another Act was passed authorizing the building or purchasing of a number of small vessels, to be equipped as galleys or otherwise, and stationed in such ports of the United States as the President might direct. Eighty thousand dollars was appropriated for this object.

On 21 May, 1798, Benjamin Stoddert, Esq., of Georgetown, in the District of Columbia, was appointed to the office of Secretary of the Navy, and in June, 1798, entered upon the duties of his office as Secretary of the Navy.

From this date we commence the compilation of the General Register of the Navy.

THE UNITED STATES NAVAL ACADEMY.

THE United States Naval Academy was founded in 1845, by Hon. George Bancroft, Secretary of the Navy, in the administration of President James K. Polk. It was formally opened October 10, of that year, under the name of the Naval School, with Commander Franklin Buchanan as Superintendent. It was placed at Annapolis, Md., on the land occupied by Fort Severn, which was given up by the War Department for the purpose. The course was fixed at five years, of which the first and last only were spent at school, the intervening three being passed at sea. This arrangement was not strictly adhered to, the exigencies of the service making it necessary, in many cases, to shorten the period of study. In January, 1846, four months after the opening of the school, the students consisted of 36 Midshipmen, of the date of 1840, who were preparing for the examination for promotion; 13 of the date of 1841, who were to remain until drafted for service at sea; and 7 Acting Midshipmen, appointed since September of the previous year. The Midshipmen of the date of 1840 were the first to be graduated, finishing their limited course in July, 1846, and they were followed in order by the subsequent dates until the reorganization of the School, in 1851.

In September, 1849, a Board was appointed to revise the plan and regulations of the Naval School. The Board was composed of the following officers:

Commodore WILLIAM B. SHUBRICK,
Commander FRANKLIN BUCHANAN,
Commander SAMUEL F. DUPONT,
Commander GEORGE P. UPSHUR,
Surgeon W. S. W. RUSCHENBERGER,
Professor WILLIAM CHAUVENET,
Captain HENRY BREWERTON, U. S. A.

The plan reported by the Board was approved, and went into operation July 1, 1850.

The new organization provided for a course of seven years, the first two and last two at the School and the three intermediate years at sea. The School was placed under the supervision of the Bureau of Ordnance and Hydrography, and its name was changed to the United States Naval Academy. The corps of professors was enlarged, the course was extended, and the system of separate departments, with executive heads, was fully adopted. It was provided that a Board of Visitors should make an annual inspection of the Academy, and report upon its condition to the Secretary of the Navy. A suitable vessel was attached to the Academy as a practice-ship, and the annual practice-cruises were begun.

After the system had been in operation a year new changes were proposed, and the recommendations of the Academic Board on the subject were referred to the Board of Examiners of the year 1851, composed of the following officers:

Commodore DAVID CONNER,
Captain SAMUEL L. BREESE,
Commander C. K. STIBLING,
Commander A. BIGELOW,
Commander FRANKLIN BUCHANAN,
Lieutenant THOMAS T. CRAVEN.

The change recommended by the Board of Examiners, and adopted by the Department, consisted mainly in leaving out the requirement of three years of sea-service in the middle of the course, thus making the four years of study consecutive. The practice-cruise sup-piled the place of the omitted sea-service, and gave better opportunities of training. The change went into operation in November, 1851, together with other improvements recommended by the Board. The system has continued, with slight modifications, to the present time. The first class to receive the benefit of it was that which entered in 1851. Six members of this class completed the course in three years, and were graduated in June, 1854; the rest of the class followed in 1855.

In May, 1861, on the outbreak of the war, the Academy was removed to Newport, R. I. The three upper classes were detached and ordered to sea, and the remaining Acting Midshipmen were quartered in the Atlantic House and on board the frigates Constitution and Santee. In September, 1865, the Academy was moved back to Annapolis, where it has since remained.

When the Bureau of Navigation was established, July 5, 1862, the Academy was placed under its supervision; March 1, 1867, it was placed under the direct care and supervision of the Navy Department, the administrative routine and financial management being still conducted through the Bureau. On the 11th of March, 1869, all official connection with the Bureau came to an end.

The term of the academic course was changed by law, March 3, 1873, from four to six years. The change took effect with the class which entered in the following summer.

In 1866, a class of Acting Third Assistant Engineers was ordered to the Academy for instruction. The course embraced the subjects of steam engineering, iron manufacture, chemistry, and mechanics, and practical exercises with the steam engine and in the machine shop. This class was graduated in June, 1868, together with two Cadet Engineers who had entered the Academy in 1867. After an interval of four years, in October, 1871, a new class of Cadet Engineers was admitted. This class followed a two years' course, somewhat more extended than that of the class of 1868, and was graduated in 1873. In 1872 and 1873 new classes were admitted, the first of which left the Academy in 1874 and the second in 1875. By an act of Congress approved February 24, 1874, the course of instruction for Cadet Engineers was made four years instead of two; and the new provision was first applied to the class entering the Academy in the year 1874. This class was graduated in June, 1878.

By an act of Congress approved August 5, 1882, it was provided that from that date "there shall be no appointments of cadet midshipmen or cadet engineers at the Naval Academy, but in lieu thereof naval cadets shall be appointed from each Congressional district and at large, as now provided by law for cadet midshipmen, and all the undergraduates at the Naval Academy shall hereafter be designated and called 'naval cadets'; and from those who successfully complete the six years' course, appointments shall hereafter be made as it is necessary to fill vacancies in the lower grades of the Line and Engineer Corps of the Navy and of the Marine Corps: And provided further, That no greater number of appointments into these grades shall be made each year than shall equal the number of vacancies which has occurred in the same grades during the preceding year; such appointments to be made from the graduates of the year, at the conclusion of their six years' course, in the order of merit, as determined by the Academic Board of the Naval Academy; the assignment to the various corps to be made by the Secretary of the Navy upon the recommendation of the Academic Board. But nothing herein contained shall reduce the number of appointments from such graduates below ten in each year, nor deprive of such appointment any graduate who may complete the six years' course during the year eighteen hundred and eighty-two. And if there be a surplus of graduates, those who do not receive such appointment shall be given a certificate of graduation, an honorable discharge, and one year's sea pay, as now provided by law for cadet midshipmen; and so much of section fifteen hundred and twenty-one of the Revised Statutes as is inconsistent herewith is hereby repealed.

"That any cadet whose position in his class entitles him to be retained in the service may, upon his own application, be honorably discharged at the end of the four years' course at the Naval Academy, with a proper certificate of graduation."

In 1886 a special course of instruction in physiology and hygiene was established, in accordance with an act of Congress approved May 20 of that year.

The act of Congress approved March 2, 1889, provides that "the Academic Board of the Naval Academy shall on or before the thirtieth day of September in each year separate the first class of naval cadets then commencing their fourth year into two divisions, as they may have shown special aptitude for the duties of the respective corps, in the proportion which the aggregate number of vacancies occurring in the preceding fiscal year ending on the thirtieth day of June in the lowest grades of commissioned officers of the Line of the Navy and Marine Corps of the Navy shall bear to the number of vacancies to be supplied from the Academy occurring during the same period in the lowest grade of commissioned officers of the Engineer Corps of the Navy; and the cadets so assigned to the Line and Marine Corps division of the first class shall thereafter pursue a course of study arranged to fit them for service in the Line of the Navy, and the cadets so assigned to the Engineer Corps division of the first class shall thereafter pursue a separate course of study arranged to fit them for service in the Engineer Corps of the Navy, and the cadets shall thereafter, and until final graduation, at the end of their six years' course, take rank by merit with those in the same division, according to the merit marks; and from the final graduates of the Line and Marine Corps division, at the end of their six years' course, appointments shall be made hereafter as it shall be necessary to fill vacancies in the lowest grades of commissioned officers of the Line of the Navy and Marine Corps; and the vacancies in the lowest grades of the commissioned officers of the Engineer Corps of the Navy shall be filled in like manner by appointments from the final graduates of the Engineer division at the end of their six years' course: Provided, That no greater number of appointments into the said lowest grades of commissioned officers shall be made each year than shall equal the number of vacancies which shall have occurred in the same grades during the fiscal year then current; such appointments to be made from the final graduates of the year, in the order of merit as determined by the Academic Board of the Naval Academy, the assignment to be made by the Secretary of the Navy upon the recommendation of the Academic Board at the conclusion of the fiscal year then current; but nothing contained herein or in the naval appropriation act of August fifth, eighteen hundred and eighty-two, shall reduce the number of appointments of final graduates at the end of their six years' course below twelve in each year to the Line of the Navy, and not less than two shall be appointed annually to the Engineer Corps of the Navy, nor less than one annually to the Marine Corps; and if the number of vacancies in the lowest grades aforesaid, occurring in any year shall be greater than the number of final graduates of that year, the surplus vacancies shall be filled from the final graduates of following years, as they shall become available.

"That after the fourth day of March, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, the minimum age of admission of cadets to the Academy shall be fifteen years and the maximum age twenty years."

In October, 1897, a post-graduate course in Naval Architecture, for the education of officers for the Construction Corps of the Navy, was established; and a class was formed from the naval cadets that had finished the four years' course in that year.

By an act of Congress, approved March 3, 1899, "the officers constituting the Engineer Corps of the Navy" were "transferred to the Line of the Navy," thereby repealing so much of the act of Congress, approved March 2, 1889, as relates to the separation of naval cadets of the first class into Line and Engineer divisions.

This same act having limited the number of Constructors in the Navy to forty, the post-graduate course in Naval Architecture was discontinued.

Joint resolution tendering the thanks of Congress to Commodore GEORGE DEWEY, United States Navy, and to the officers and men of the squadron under his command.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That, in pursuance of the recommendation of the President, made in accordance with the provisions of section fifteen hundred and eight of the Revised Statutes, the thanks of Congress and of the American people are hereby tendered to Commodore George Dewey, United States Navy, Commander-in-Chief of the United States naval force on the Asiatic Station, for highly distinguished conduct in conflict with the enemy, as displayed by him in the destruction of the Spanish fleet and batteries in the harbor of Manila, Philippine Islands, May first, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight.

That the thanks of Congress and the American people are hereby extended through Commodore Dewey to the officers and men under his command for the gallantry and skill exhibited by them on that occasion.

Be it further resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to cause this resolution to be communicated to Commodore Dewey, and, through him, to the officers and men under his command.

Approved May 10, 1898.
